

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

This is a time of great events, and you will want the news accurately and promptly. All the countries of the world steadily draw closer together, and the telegraph wires bring the happenings of every one. No other newspaper has a service equal to that of The World and it relates everything fully and promptly.

The World long since established a record for impartiality, and any body can afford its Thrice-a-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-a-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that it to be found in a first class daily.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and Hopkinsville Kentuckian together for one year for $2.65.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00.

Unusual Offer To Our Readers.

For a limited time, and subject to withdrawal after 30 days, the well known publishing house of the J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia, founded in 1792, offers to the readers of this paper a 12 months' subscription to "Lippincott's Magazine" and a year's subscription to the Kentuckian, both for $3.00. This is the price of a twelve months' subscription to "Lippincott's" alone. Additional to obtaining every issue of this paper for a year, our readers will receive in "Lippincott's," 12 great complete novels by popular authors, 105 short stories, crisp, entertaining, original 45 timely articles from the pens of masters, and each month some excellent poems with the right sentiment, and "Walnuts and Wine," the most popular humor section in America. To obtain this extraordinary offer prompt action is necessary. Remit to J. B. Lippincott Company, Washington Square, Phila., Pa. Advertisement.

LIGHTHOUSES STILL USE OIL

Inferior to Electricity, the Latter's Extreme Cost Prevents Its General Employment.

The latest big feat of the lighthouse engineer in British waters is the building of the new tower on the Fastnet rock, a small pinnacle off the coast of Ireland. It cost no less than $2,100,000, though it should be added that in this item is included the expenses of a special steamer that was built to carry the stone blocks to the rock. The light here is given by a series of incandescent burners, producing a power of 1,200 candles. By means of mirrors this is intensified and concentrated into a single flash of 750,000 candle power and capable of being seen on a clear night twenty miles out at sea.

It is a remarkable fact that, despite the wonderful advance which electricity has made oil is still generally used in lighthouses. The truth is electricity has been found too costly for lighthouse work and there are few stations that boast of their electrical installations, the most famous exception being in Helgoland lighthouse, whose electrical beams are equal to 43,000,000 candle power. The light here alone costs $7,000 a year to maintain.

APPLE MEN HIT BY THE WAR

Record Crop Reported, but European Markets Are Not Open and Shipments Are Hazardous.

Apple exporters in the United States are back from Boston, where they attended the annual meeting of the International Apple Shippers' association, and it would be difficult to find a bluer lot of men. Usually at these annual gatherings large contracts are made with growers, and buyers leave the conventions to go to New England and New York apple sections to pack apples for storage.

But because of the European war no contracts were reported at the Boston meeting and the apple shippers are all at sea.

Not since 1896 have there been such ideal prospects for the apple crop in this country. At the convention reports were made from all apple sections which showed that the yield would probably be 60,000,000 barrels for the entire United States, a record breaker.

As a great deal depends upon the outlet to foreign countries, the closing of the seas by the European war is a hard blow to the growers as well as shippers.

FAMOUS ENGLISH PAINTER.

Josiah Gilbert, who attained wide fame as a painter, was born 100 years ago in Yorkshire, England. His early education was received at home. Later he became a student in the Royal academy, practiced as a portrait painter for some years in London, and then went to live at Mardeon Ash, where he spent his remaining years in literary and artistic pursuits. Mr. Gilbert became widely known as an authority on painting. Among his works were "Art, Its Scope and Purpose," "Cadore, or Titian's Country," "Art and Religion," "The Dolomite Mountains" and "Landscape in Art Before Claude and Salvador."

INDUCING SLEEP.

Doctor—Insomnia, eh? Have you ever tried counting sheep jumping a fence?

RATHER VINDICTIVE.

"It looks like a heavy storm this afternoon."

"I can't say I'm sorry. It's the cook's afternoon out."

THE RISKY FRISK.

"I am afraid young Dasher is a reckless high flier."

"He isn't content with high flying. He insists on looping the loop."

THE KIND.

"I want some pin money, dear."

"How much, my dear?"

"Well, I want to get a real nice diamond one."

Pains All Over.

Houston, Tex.—"For five years," says Mrs. L. Fulenehek of this place, "I suffered with pains all over, especially in my back and side, and was so weak I could hardly do my housework. A friend told me of Cardui. Since taking it, I feel so much better! Now I can do all my housework and pains don't bother me any more at all." Cardui is a strength building medicine. Fifty years of success have produced, amongst its many users, confidence in Cardui and what it will do. During this time, Cardui has relieved the female ailments of over a million women. Why not yours? Try it, today. Your druggist sells it. Advertisement.

Little Alice's Sore Point.

Little Alice was in the train the other day, and in the seat opposite to him was an old pensioner whose breast was covered with medals.

Alice gazed at him and the medals long and earnestly, and at last said to his mother: "Mamma, why does that man wear his money on his coat? Won't they let him have pockets?"

SOME FREAKS OF GRATITUDE

Woman Found She Had Promised Larger Reward Than She Could Estimate—Young Man's Railroad Pass.

At a New York subway station recently a woman lost a $500 diamond ring, which was duly restored to her upon the advertised promise to pay the finder a reward of $200. When the ring was taken to the owner by the finder she found that she had profited more than she could fulfill with cash. So she had to pawn the ring to make good.

Patience not by any means a solitary case of odd recompensing incidents. A few months ago a Philadelphia woman lost a pet dog. She advertised for two weeks daily, offering a sum out of all proportion to the worth of the animal according to current dog rates.

Her pet was brought to her door one morning and the reward claimed before delivery. She was unable to pay and was in tears when the finder refused to accept her promise to pay later as reason enough for leaving the dog.

A compromise was reached at last. She signed a paper relinquishing all rights to the dog for a period of six months. The animal's temporary owner entered him in every dog show within a radius of a thousand miles and was reported to have made a tidy sum in prizes.

The daughter of a Western railroad president was boating on Lake Michigan last season, when, in exchanging seats there was an upset, and she was in peril for a time. A young fellow jumped from a nearby launch and rescued her. Her father effusively thanked the rescuer and asked him how much cash he might have the privilege of bestowing upon such a brave man.

The young fellow indignantly refused to consider the value of his service in dollars and cents. When pressed to name some other reward he finally made it known that he'd signed for a pass on the president's railroad all his young life. He would take an annual pass, but that was all. When the president explained that it was not lawful to issue him one, he just said: "All right, good-by," and started off. But the president induced him to come back, and found a way out of the difficulty by giving him a job on the railroad in order that he might lawfully use a pass.

Monument to a Woman.

There has just been erected at Blevies, France, a monument commemorative of the patriotic spirit and services of Mlle. Dodu, a telegraph operator, who, after receiving a modest recompense following the war of 1870, obtained some years later the military medal and afterward the cross of the Legion of Honor. Now 44 years having elapsed since the war, it is denied that she was entitled to these honors. One of the alleged services was that to save capture by the Germans she hid the Morse telegraphic apparatus between the two mattresses of a bedridden neighbor, but it is denied that she was ever taken before a council of war and condemned by a German tribunal. It is even said that the whole dramatic story was invented by M. Villemessant, a journalist, on the border of Lake Enghein, to which place the young telegraphist had been sent after the war. But Mlle. Juliette Dodu, thanks to the journalist, had substantial recognition while living and now her name is in large relief on a monument.

Old Scotch Church of Kelwining.

One hundred years ago the remarkable steeple of Kelwining church, in Scotland, collapsed and fell to the ground, fortunately without injuring any person. For several centuries the Kelwining church, or abbey, had been regarded as one of the architectural gems of Scotland and its steeple was remarkable both for its height and its artistic design. The church dated back to about the middle of the twelfth century. In 1560 the edifice suffered considerable damage at the hands of zealous reformers, who, fired by the sermons of John Knox, plundered and laid in ruins many of the abbey and monasteries throughout Scotland. These acts of vandalism formed a part of their campaign to supplant Roman Catholicism by Protestantism, which they finally succeeded in bringing about through an act of parliament passed in 1567.

Tuberculosis in Egypt.

Modern research has established the fact that tuberculosis, both of lungs and bones, was common in ancient Egypt more than 3,000 years ago.

Not even in diseases, apparently, is there any new thing under the sun. There are grounds for believing that the ancient Pharaohs suffered from malaria, and had appendicitis now and then, and their instruments prove that most ailments of today devastated the banks of the Nile twenty centuries before the birth of Christ.

Where the modern world may claim novelty is in the successful treatment of disorders which our ancestors were obliged to endure.

The "Stigograph."

M. Frantz Reichel, the sporting journalist who referees the chief fights in France, and who judged the recent Carpentier-Jeanette contest, has devised a new kind of chart for the use of judges in boxing matches. It is in the form of a "graph." The points are mapped out on squared paper at the end of each round, and the "curve" connecting them gives the verdict to the man on whose side of the central line it mainly lies.
